SENTIMENT ANALYSIS

POSITIVE COMMENT

- Teamlab Borderless in Shanghai is out of this world. As you walk into the unbounded world of light you can experience the visual impact of the amazing lights and shadows. It is a huge place and the screens too. It allows you to feel and engage in the scenes. Since it has a lot colorful lights it also makes you confuse finding the exit and the next room to view. Well, we even lost our track but that was fine. One of my favorites is where the white lights turn into pink and blue and then all of a sudden flash of lights. It was incredible. Once you are inside, it has a different feeling. It costs 498rmb for two. It is definitely worth to visit.
- The flowers bloom over time, the universe of life expands infinitely in space. Creating three-dimensional objects, and these groups create spaces of works. The interaction between the three-dimensional objects that appear in space will also be affected by the presence of people who put into the place.
- A three-dimensional work created by accumulating light points; created in a manner similar to a colored painting, that is, drawing images with various color points. Unlimited expansion of the sculpture group of light. The interaction between the viewer and the installation will constantly change the work. beautiful ❤️
- The installations are just amazing! the floating lamps and the room with butterflies were my favorite! definitely recommend going! Spent there 3 hours, absolutely worth the time and the money. It was a little too crowded for a Tue, but it didn't affect the visit much. Loved it!
- This is a dream world created by light and shadow, there are seas of flowers, butterflies, and dolls... The most fun thing is that you can interact with light and shadow, such as where you go, the flowers on the ground will bloom, and the flowers will wither when you touch the wall. There is also a cafe inside, you can take a break after playing.
- A great playground, which is projected through lighting technology. The picture is really beautiful. Going late, but there are not many guests. It still looks great. Overall great value.
